

I am very much concerned that there has already been too much media consolidation, and there are far too few owners today. The public is not getting a diverse range of views, as the owners are defense cheats, polluters, and other corporate criminals with much to hide. There is a serious need for diversity.